Parsippany Education Foundation, Inc.

In 1996, a small group of local businessmen, educators and parents in Parsippany established a non-profit organization with the primary charter of developing a community of learners. It was their goal that this community would work together for the children in the Parsippany-Troy Hills School District, giving them new, unique learning opportunities and enhancing their educational experiences.

In the past 10 years, the Parsippany Education Foundation, Inc. has granted over $250,000 to the our school district to fund innovative programs that introduced students to new cultures, thereby teaching social tolerance and respect for diversity. In recognizing the value of technology as an integral part of the curriculum, our grants for iPads has helped our students, including those with special needs, to meet the challenges of their educational goals with applications that target specific learning objectives. Grant money has also supported the arts in our district, including Artists in residence workshops for our Choral and Band students conducted by professional internationally known artists. Other programs have enriched the curriculum with interactive school assemblies, field trips and the latest science lab equipment. And, of course, there have been creative programs that enhance basic skills in math and reading.

We can't say that our mission is an easy one. Parsippany is the largest town in Morris County and we compete with other non-profit organizations, sports and school clubs. We're proud to say that we are still here, we continue to grow, and we have you to thank. With your continued support, we remain committed to serving the 7,200 plus students in our school district!
